

REPUBLIC OF SOUTH SUDAN
MEDIA AUTHORITY

25 August 2023

Memo

Printing of Wrong Version of South Sudan National Flag

Media Authority has observed with great concerns the printing and circulation of different versions of the South Sudan National Flag in the country and at some diplomatic missions abroad.

The National Flag can only be reproduced in a dignified manner in its original designs, accurate shapes and colours.

Any product bearing images of the South Sudan National Flag should reflect the right version.

Media houses, Advertisement and printing companies are hereby cautioned to immediately cease any printing of wrong versions of the National Flag that does not conform with the right version of the South Sudan National Flag.

Printing, publication and circulation of the wrong version of South Sudan National Flag is prohibited. Failure to comply to print the right version of the National Flag will incur penalties to printing and advertisement companies.

All levels of Government and public institutions are hereby advised to remove all the wrong and substandard versions of the South Sudan National Flag and replace them with the right official version.

The Ministry of Presidential Affairs to provide enough national flags for all the States and Administrative Areas in accordance with the 5th Governors' Forum' Resolutions, November 22 – 29, 2021.

The South Sudan National Flag is a visible national symbol that represent the South Sudanese in deferent functions and should be accorded respect and dignity at all times.

For more information about production and guidelines for the use of National flag, please contact the Ministry of Presidential Affairs, Republic of South Sudan, Juba.

Media Authority remains committed to ensure public interest is protected as we regulate and promote the development of professional, pluralistic and vibrant media in the public interest.

Elijah Alier Kuai
Managing Director
Media Authority
Republic of South Sudan, Juba

